DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 2, 3, 9, and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The method claims do not require any physical transformation, and the invention as claimed does not produce a useful, concrete, and tangible result.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 5-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Turner (6,406,396).

With reference to fig. 4, Turner discloses a plate (330) for a plate-link chain for use in a CVT comprising: spaces longitudinal and vertical legs, and an opening for receiving pairs of rocker members (315). The formulas claimed are understood to describe the bending moment of all plates of similar design. The examiner notes that the claim language "selectively varying plate geometry variables until a minimum longitudinal leg bending moment is achieved" appears to recite a method/process step of optimizing the plates of the plate-link chain though the claims are drawn to the apparatus; therefore the method/process step using the formulas have not been given patentable weight.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 04 June 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's arguments concerning claims 2, 3, 9, and 10, and the rejection to non-statutory subject matter, the examiner points out that the claims merely recite "providing an initial plate geometry" and "modifying respective ones of the plate geometry variables", and do not ever positively recite a link plate having a certain geometry. The claims further fail to define, as a final step, producing/manufacturing a plate having the calculated plate geometry variables which achieve a minimum longitudinal leg bending moment.

In response to applicant's arguments concerning the apparatus claims 5-8, the examiner points out that the claim language "selectively varying plate geometry variables until a minimum longitudinal leg bending moment is achieved" appears to recite a method/process step of optimizing the plates of the plate-link chain though the claims are drawn to the apparatus; therefore the method/process step using the formulas have not been given patentable weight.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
